DRIVE-A-MEAL

JOYCE PALMER/EDITOR

MEALS-ON WHEELS or (Drive-A-Meal) for those of us who volunteer to deliver meals to members of our community in need is a great volunteer project! Clients pay for a hot meal and beverage delivered to their door around the lunch hour. After today's deliveries, I sat back and recapped the people I met. I discovered that the majority were serene and cheerful (including two members of our own church family). Despite their adversities, they were cordial and appreciative. As I left their doors, I realized how blessed I am to be able to share my love for Christ and my faith for the future.

In these times of recession and uncertainty, the trusting and forward-looking Christian remains optimistic and joyful, knowing that Christ someday must rule and "if we endure, we shall also reign with Him" (2Tim.2:12). May I suggest that we keep Heaven in View throughout our days and more importantly, share this view with those around us who have no view of heaven in their lives.

Look around you in your neighborhood, at work or wherever your path may take you for those who could benefit from your vision of heaven. Your day will be enriched just as mine was today after completing my volunteer assignment!

"Draw near to God and He will draw near to you."

Your Church Family Focus

SAMUEL HORSTMAN

I met Samuel after church earlier this year as he accompanied his grandmother, Emily Horstman, to 9 a.m. service. Sam impressed me as a quiet but focused young man with goals for himself. Sure enough, my assessment was correct. After learning that he was a journalism major at EPCC, I asked whether he would be interested in working with me on this newsletter. He graciously accepted the challenge of formatting and designing this “work of the church”. I am so grateful for his expertise. I know that as a team we can give you a much better product.

Samuel is 19 years old and attends EPCC. He is the Editor-in-Chief of the newspaper, Tejano Tribune. He plans to transfer to New Mexico State

SAMUEL ON A SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT
FOR THE TEJANO TRIBUNE

University next year and continue his studies in journalism. Samuel was born and raised in El Paso; he is the eldest grandchild of Emily Horstman. He graduated from El Dorado High School where he was Co-Editor of the newspaper and President of the Theater Society. We are blessed to have him in our midst!
